Re: Goliath Ventures/Chris Delgado Articles
Response to Settlement Overture
Our Client: Goliath

Mr. De Hek:

On October 13, 2025, our client received an unsolicited email from a third-party purporting to represent your interests in resolving the pending litigation against you.¹ We are writing you, and copying Goliath's New Zealand litigation counsel, to determine if this is a legitimate communication on your behalf.

If this email is legitimate, Goliath, as any active litigant, is willing to explore good-faith efforts to amicably resolve the current and future litigation against you. If a resolution can be reached quickly, Goliath is willing to seek a resolution where you are not required to compensate Goliath for the millions of dollars in damages your posts have caused nor consent to a judgment for those damages if you are unable to pay same.²

In light of Goliath's current willingness to entertain a resolution structured to forego recovery of some or all of its damages (or, in the alternative, the entry of a consent judgment for such amount), Goliath will not negotiate on its demand for any resolution to include your (i) identification of all third-parties who provided you with any assistance whatsoever, including without limitation, financial, informational and/or documentary, and (ii) production of any writings regarding same.

Goliath's operations are completely legitimate and if you choose to participate in the lawsuit and defend yourself, as you claim on your website you intend to do, you will discover all the information provided to you is false. Goliath is only engaging in these communications to avoid continued defamation and have clarity on who has been paying you and providing you with the false information that you seem to be relying upon. Therefore, to settle the pending lawsuit and the other lawsuits that will be filed in New Zealand, Goliath demands that you:

² Goliath reserves the right to change its position on the inclusion of damages at its sole discretion.

1. Immediately provide Goliath (through its U.S. and New Zealand counsel) with a list of names of people who paid you and/or provided you with any documentation or information including a description of what information was provided. To be clear, we already know of one such person and plan to file a lawsuit against him shortly.
2. Regarding the people identified in No. 1 above, all documentation regarding same, including without limitation payment records, emails, text messages, and other forms of electronic communications. If you have deleted any such documentation, an affidavit stating such and providing a third-party IT recovery expert access to the devices to explore recovery of said documents. Goliath will bear the cost of any such recovery expert.
3. Take down all posts about Goliath and make a public apology stating that you were paid to post that information by people who you now realize were providing you with false information.³
4. You will need to sign a settlement agreement containing common terms, including, without limitation, release and non-disparagement provisions. If you violate the non-disparagement provision, you must agree to a consent judgment entered in the appropriate forum in New Zealand and the U.S. in the amount of USD $5,000,000.

Depending on your willingness to agree to these demands, Goliath will entertain a monetary component in your favor based on the time and misinformation you have received.

Reservation of Rights Nothing herein is intended to limit, waive, restrict or otherwise alter any of Goliath's rights and/or remedies under any applicable agreement, at law, and/or in equity, and same are hereby expressly reserved and preserved. This letter is not a settlement agreement and the terms contained herein are subject to us agreeing to the form and substance of a written settlement agreement.

Sincerely,

To: chris@goliathventuresinc.com <chris@goliathventuresinc.com>

Hello there Chris.

Im not sure if you watched Danny's video today on you but he looked a little defeated. I am personal friends of Danny here in New Zealand and helped him in the beginning on Goliath.

So long story short, he called me like an hour ago after his live broadcast and I could tell he is very beaten up. Mate, if I were to sit with him and tell him to let it go, remove all posts and even issue an apology and make it public he would. I was his mentor that he mentioned a few times in his videos about you. We actually briefly spoke about letting it all go on Sunday night but he will need my support and convincing to make it all go away. If I go by his house tomorrow or Thursday and sit down with him, everything will be gone by Monday. He wants to move on, but he needs that push. That push is me.

So here is my offer: $50,000 up front. $100,000 once all posts are down and he issues public apology. If he chooses not to, I will send the $50k back. However, I am absolutely certain he will.

Since you are a bitcoin miner, here is my btc address to send the $50,000. Once received I will update you daily:

This can all be over soon.

Exhibit 2

I have recently made numerous posts regarding Goliath Ventures, Inc, Chris Delgado, and other people affiliated with Goliath Ventures, Inc. I have always strived to provide the truth to my readers and listeners. Unfortunately, unbeknownst to me, the information I was provided regarding Goliath was false. I was provided with this information and was being monetarily supported by people who had improper motives and personal animosity towards either Goliath or Mr. Delgado. I had no idea.

To be clear, I do not have any evidence that Goliath is a Ponzi scheme, nor do I have any evidence that Goliath is operating in any improper manner. I have taken down all of my prior posts to the contrary. I consider myself an honorable person and when I am wrong, I say I am wrong. To Goliath, Mr. Delgado, and everyone else impacted by my posts, I humbly apologize. To each of you, I am very sorry.
